

The Minor ALT Invitational I

AUGUST 31 – SEPTEMBER 4 2020

WORLD CLASS ONLINE BRIDGE EVENTS

Nobody is left Behind

Gillis continue to lead the field, but a little more than halfway no teams are left behind. Fredin initiated a comeback by defeating the leaders from team Gillis, and despite two minor losses yesterday, team Potter is hanging on to second, which shows the evenness of the field; no easy matches and everybody beats each other.

Today's victim is Per-Ola Cullin, the man, the player, the legend.

And we have a little teaser for tomorrow; David Gold will be interviewed about the secret task force working day and night to ensure we can continue to allow kibitzers in the Alt Events.

All players should enter BBO 10 minutes before the beginning of a match. TD Denis Dobrin will instruct you where to sit. All players must have their name in their BBO-profile. Private isn't allowed for the sake of opponents and kibitzers.

Today's Schedule Round 5 & 6

Wednesday Sept. 2

Dazzling Declarer Play

After the first day's warm up we had the pleasure of being dazzled by some excellent declarer play in the last round yesterday.

3♥ was weak and 5♥ asking for the ♣Q

Hurd led the ♥4 to dummy's king, South plying the ♥Q. At trick 2, Brogeland played the ♦3 over the jack to his ace (a way to make the contract with clubs splitting is to play for ♦Hx in either hand and eliminate the other suits for a ruff and sluff, but to prevent the hand with ♦Hx from unblocking, the play must be made early).

He carefully ruffed a heart with the ♣8. He continued with the ♣Q and saw the bad split. ♣9 followed, South played the 10, won by West's king. A spade to the ace, ♣4 from dummy, finessing with the 7, ♣A and now he exited with a diamond. South returned a heart to the ace, and Brogeland played his last club. North had to discard a spade to hold on to the ♦K, and now Brogeland played a spade to the king, pinning the Q, guessing North not to have Qxxxxxx of spades without showing them.

12 well-played tricks and +1370 was rewarded by 17 IMPs when declarer went down in 5♣ in the other room.

Peter Fredin also made 6♣ after a similar auction and the same lead. He also played a diamond to the ace at trick 2. Next a club to the queen, seeing the split, followed by the nine, covered, ace. He now ruffed a heart with the ♣8 and cashed the ♠A, noting the T from South. He cleared the trumps, cashed the ♥A and his remaining club, Cecilia Rimstedt making a brave attempt at misleading Fredin by pitching the ♦K. Fredin did not have as much count on the hand as Brogeland, but who needs that if you guess well?

He played a spade to the king and saw the queen drop.

An argument for getting the ♠Q right is that North did not open 2♠, which would be a possibility for some with ♠ Qxxxxx ♥ xxxx ♦ Kxx ♣ —.

On the last board of the day one declarer outplayed the rest of the field.

With his solid heart stopper, Grossack opted for 1NT in his first turn but still ended up in 4♠.

Black led the ♥3 and Grossack refrained from ruffing and pitched a club from dummy instead. Borth won the ace and played the ♠Q, ducked by Grossack. Gold switched to the ♣2 to partner's queen and dummy's ace. East played a diamond to the ace, diamond to the king and ruffed a diamond. He played the ♠J, covered by South and won with the ace. A spade to the ten followed, and Grossack played the ♥J, covered by South and ruffed with his last trump.

Now Grossack cashed the ♣K before playing the ♦J, and South could do nothing but ruff and play a heart into East's remaining Q9.

Excellent cardreading was rewarded by +420, which limited the loss on the hand to 2 IMPs when NS in the other room were doubled in 3♥ for -500.

Four East-declarers went down in 4xs, one in 3xs. Once again Peter Fredin was the only other declarer to make 4xs, but played in the West, receiving the lead of the ♥A, making life and the contract simpler.

The Night they Invented Champagne

By Mark Horton

Shortly before play began today I put the finishing touches to Misbid These Hands with Me which should appear sometime next year. That is a good enough reason to open a bottle of champagne, and one is on ice pending the completion of Round 3, where I'm taking a look at Potter vs. Donner.

Before we get down to the play, here are a few famous quotes about Champagne:

"Come quickly, I am tasting the stars!"
Dom Perignon, French Benedictine monk

"Champagne! In victory one deserves it, in defeat one needs it."
Napoleon Bonaparte

"I only drink Champagne on two occasions, when I am in love and when I am not"
Coco Chanel

"Remember gentlemen, it's not just France we are fighting for, it's Champagne!"
Sir Winston Churchill

"Why do I drink Champagne for breakfast? Doesn't everyone?"
Noel Coward

"Champagne and orange juice is a great drink. The orange improves the Champagne. The Champagne definitely improves the orange."
Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh

Time to see if our stars could deliver any champagne moments.

In recent reports I have mentioned the potential of the Bridge Playing engine Alpha Zero (still in the course of being developed). I wonder if its programmers have incorporated the Kaplan-Rubens Hand Evaluator. On the first deal of Round 3 North held a modest looking hand - ♠A1076 ♥A8742 ♦3 ♣A94. When 1♥ was raised to 2♥ North was content to let matters rest. However, on KR the hand rates 15.00 and as soon as your five-card suit is raised you can add on 3 points for the fifth trump. Partner held ♠K543 ♥KQ5 ♦6542 ♣108 and you could take 11 tricks in hearts.

Only De Michelis and Failla reached the game via 1♥-2♥-2♠-3♠-4♥.

On Board 3 NS held ♠K1092 ♥AK8 ♦10 ♣Q10653 facing ♠Q4 ♥Q62 ♦KQ984 ♣AKJ. Donner - Rimstedt didn't know the meaning of 1♣-1NT-3NT (1♣ = 16+, 1NT = ♣) and when North bid 4NT South's jump to 6♣ resulted in the loss of 11 IMPs against the 3NT+2 in the other room.

Board 4 saw NS reach 4♥ with a trump suit of ♥AQ974 opposite ♥1085. In isolation the best line is to run the ♥10/8, offering a 22% chance of no loser and a 76% chance of four tricks, but there were other considerations and only Failla and Zagorin played the heart suit for no loser and a big swing.

As it happens 3NT would have been easier

At last we got something close to a cork-popping moment:

3♥ Transfer

South found the dramatic lead of the ♣A and he continued with the four, North ruffing and returning the ♦6 for the jack and ace. When South played a third club North could ruff with the ♠5 ensuring a trick for the ♠J and one down.

Andrew McIntosh also found the lead but after getting in at trick three with the ♦A he returned a diamond and now declarer could pick up the trumps and lose only an IMP.

If South starts with a heart and declarer wins and plays a spade to the king it will probably be followed by three rounds of hearts pitching dummy's diamonds. North ruffs, and must now resist the temptation to try for a club ruff. The winning defence is to exit with a trump. If declarer wins in hand and plays a club to the king South wins and returns the ♣J.

There is a winning line after a heart lead, but as it involves immediately playing three more rounds of heart to dispose of dummy's diamonds it is a bit of a non-starter.

The 12 IMPs acquired on this deal gave Donner the lead, 22-15.

North led the ♣J and when it held he continued with the queen, covered by the king and ace. When South played the ♣10 declarer ruffed, played a diamond to the queen, pitched a spade on the ♦A (North dropping the king) ruffed a diamond high, played a heart to the jack, ruffed a diamond high, played a heart to the jack and ran the ♠J to North's king, claiming when the ♠9 was returned.

That looks it's worth a drop of bubbles!

If South switches to a spade at trick three, declarer cannot score more than nine tricks. Therefore, declarer should withhold dummy's ♣K at trick two. Say North switches to a trump. Declarer wins in hand, plays a diamond to the queen, cashes the ♦A, ruffs a diamond high, crosses to dummy with a trump, ruffs a diamond, crosses to dummy with a trump and exits with a club. South wins and plays a club, but declarer ruffs and then plays a low spade to endplay North.

There is a countermeasure - North must lead a low club at trick two! Then South gets in and can safely lead a spade.

North led a trump and declarer won in hand, crossed to dummy with a trump and ran the ♠J, North winning with the queen and switching to the ♣Q. That left declarer with no chance, so Donner had 12 well deserved IMPs.

If declarer takes the diamond finesse at trick two he can then ditch a club on the ♦A after which it should not be difficult to get up to ten tricks.

He crossed to dummy with a diamond and ran the ♠9. When it held he cashed dummy's top clubs and played a second spade only to be undone when South discarded. Nine tricks were no longer possible.

Having won the third heart, suppose declarer plays a spade to the nine. If it holds he can duck a diamond, just in case.

It was a good comeback by Donner who won 13.15-6.85. Champagne all round!

Victim of the Day

Per-Ola Cullin

by Christina Lund Madsen

How did you begin to play bridge?

- My mother and I played a lot of cards when I grew up. At times she would give me my allowance on Friday and win it back from me at poker on Saturday. But we also played trick taking games like Bismarck. We didn't know bridge though. Then when I was 15 I was a table tennis trainer for young kids. One day a (much older) brother of one of the kids turned up at practice to watch. We started talking and he told me he was a bridge player. So I asked him to teach me. He was unemployed at the time so we started playing bridge more or less every day. Bridge had me at hello.

How have you spent your time in Sweden during corona?

- To be honest, apart from bridge my life has not changed much. My kids have been able to go to school. I have been able to go to work. Restaurants, hair dressers and stores have been open. More importantly my wife and I have been able to hang out with her parents and my father, as they are relatively young and healthy. So far I have been fortunate enough not to have someone I know dying from the virus.

What have you missed the most this past half year?

- Live bridge. Going to the local club or the nationals to meet my friends.

But the biggest setback was that Marion and I did not get to play in our first open championship for Sweden in Madeira.

You were already a judge and had a potential big career within law. How come you changed directions and became a full time bridge player?

- I decided to quit my job at the Ombudsman of Justice last spring because I was more or less always thinking about my cases, even at home. It is a low intensive stress that is very energy draining. I wanted to be more present around my family. It started out really well. In the fall I took French for beginners at the university and was a stay-at-home dad with the occasional bridge trip. Then came Corona and I wasn't sure what was going to happen with my bridge income. So when in March I was offered an interesting position I decided to go back to work. I now work for a parliamentary committee with the task of strengthening the constitution and the independence of the judiciary.

How do you feel today about cracking the lead code of Fisher-Schwartz back in 2015?

- It is still a source of great pride of course. But it is barely worth calling a code. It is amazing how crude and simple their method was.

The Swedish World Champions 2012

Which is your favourite part of the male or female body?

- My brain says the female tush, but my heart beats even faster when seeing female breasts, so I guess that's the correct answer for me.

Which is your best memory from a tournament (not necessarily bridge related)?

- It is a boring answer, but nothing comes close to the memories from Lille where we won the World Championship in 2012.

*Massi's question for you:
 Who is the best Portuguese bridge player and if have you ever had a chance to play with him?*

- I absolutely love Portuguese bridge players. I went to Madeira and Lisboa last fall and I met a lot of incredibly nice people. The best player is probably Jorge Cruzeiro. We did not play together yet. The master of card reading - António Palma - is the crown prince of Portuguese bridge, but he has to learn how to control his temper before he can dominate Cruzeiro. My wife and I refer to António as my Portuguese boyfriend. He loves the game like no one else and we discuss a lot of bridge.

What are the differences between having a male and female regular partner?

- I do not think that I have noticed any particular gender related differences.

Which is your greatest strength as a player?

- I do not let bad boards affect my game. I'm a machine in that sense.

Per-Ola Cullin with his Portuguese boyfriend
Photo: ACBL

Which is your greatest weakness as a player?

- I am too slow. I am currently trying very hard to play faster.

Which is your greatest strength as a human being?

- It is for others to judge, but I would like to say my lack of prestige. I don't take myself very seriously.

Which is your greatest weakness as a human being?

- I never do today what I can do tomorrow.

How would your wife Julia describe you in three words?

- I asked her. Intelligent, humorous and moody.

If you could get one second chance to change something in your past, what would it be?

- I would have taken my mother's coughing more seriously and forced a doctor to x-ray her before it was too late.

Who would you like to partner, kiss, kill between Simon de Wijs, Frederic Volcker and Simon Hult?

- I'm a superficial person, so I will kiss the most handsome out of the three; Volcker. I would kill de Wijs. He is one of my favorites. Remarkably humorous and sharp. But he is too strong to have on opposing teams in future Bermuda Bowls. I like fast cars. And playing with Hult is like driving a Ferrari. He is absolute GOAT-material.

Who should be a future victim in the bulletin? Tell us something you would like to know about this person.

- Andrea Manno. How did you quarantine your charm during the quarantine? It is a very strong force after all.
